Ran Xu presents

The Body: Divine, Sensual and Surreal

How societies and individuals chose to present our physical selves is vital to our understanding of our own selves and our place in the world. This talk presents a quick tour of how various art traditions and societies have expressed the place of the body and of the individual through its visual arts. We will cover the religious as well as the erotic aspects of the visual depiction as well as the surreal and abstract. We will discuss the meaning of these depictions through art works ranging from the Golden Age Netherlands, Mughal India, Imperial China and Shogunate Japan.
