

The Thinkery - "Everything is Interesting"

Steve Shi presents:

Do Chinese lack EQ?

The Chinese Education System and Emotional Intelligence

The Latin root for the word education (e+ducere) means "to bring out"; therefore to bring the person out and enable him/her to become the best possible both intellectually and emotionally should be goal of education. The Chinese education system is well known for producing world class exam takers, but few have paid attention to the education of emotional intelligence. In this talk Steve, a dating coach in Shanghai, will discuss the absence of EQ education and what can be done to make up for the underdeveloped abilities to feel, express, identify and empathize.
