This talk will outline the various foreign trade and investment restrictions imposed by both China and the U.S., respectively. The goal is to promote understanding of the realities of these aspects of the U.S.-China Trade War both as a matter of general interest and also to traders and investors in their compliance obligations.

Vincent Wang is a Partner at Global Law Firm. Before joining Global Law Firm, he worked for 18 years at Davis Wright Tremaine, in addition to other foreign and Chinese law firms. In his legal career, he has represented various multinational corporations and Chinese state-owned and private companies. His practice areas cover a broad-spectrum of industries, and he is particularly skillful in solving new and challenging issues in the TMT areas. Vincent holds a Masters in Law from USCLA.

Ezra Wasserman Mitchell is a Professor of Law at the Shanghai University of Politics and Law, as well as a Foreign Law Consultant at the Global Law Office in Shanghai. He is a legal scholar and the author of many papers and books, among them the award-winning The Speculation Economy (2008), Corporate Irresponsibility (2001), and Stacked Deck: A Story of Selfishness in America (1998). A graduate of Columbia Law School, he taught for many years at the George Washington University and Case Western University.

China Crossroads hosts talks on all topics related to China, including business, foreign policy, and other areas as they relate to China, the idea being that China is both already a “crossroads” of the world and itself at a “crossroads” in terms of its future global influence.
