China's banking system is the center of its financial system, touching all aspects of the economy and shapes how China interacts with the world through its flows of capital. Join us as we explore how the banking system works and influences the direction of China's development.

Han Shen Lin is an Assistant Professor of Clinical Practice in the Finance Department of NYU Shanghai. He is also currently a Senior Advisor at The Asia Group, a DC-based consultancy. Prior to this, he was a Senior Vice President and Deputy General Manager of Wells Fargo in China, where he helped lead the bank's China governance and oversaw its China corporate and commercial banking client coverage, strategy, and business development. Han received a BBA from the University of Michigan's Ross Business School, and later completed a Masters of International Studies at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), a Masters of Science in Global Finance at the joint HKUST-NYU Stern program, and a Masters of Chinese Commercial Law at Fudan University Law School. Han serves on the Board of Governors of the American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai, and he previously served as Chair of AmCham's Financial Services Committee.

China Crossroads hosts talks on all topics related to China, including business, foreign policy, and other areas as they relate to China, the idea being that China is both already a "crossroads" of the world and itself at a "crossroads" in terms of its future global influence.
